Spring 2015 – Special Topic Course Descriptions

ConRes 626 Adv. Intervention: Multi-party & Public Disputes

Lorraine Della Porta

Wednesday 5:30 – 8:15

Class #3051

Room: M-2 207

This course is intended to familiarize students with advanced conflict intervention methodologies with a focus on complex, multi-party public disputes in a variety of settings. The course will explore both the theoretical underpinnings and the practical application of a variety of conflict intervention techniques and strategies. Federal, state and local case studies and exercises will be employed to help students develop skills in multi-party conflict assessment, design, and facilitation of consensus building, deliberative dialogue and other various public participation processes. Projects will be assigned to provide opportunity for students to apply course concepts to a current public policy issue or a situation drawn from their professional needs and/or personal interest.

ConRes 697 Dealing with the Past: Local and Global Perspectives on Truth-telling, Social Justice and Healing

Michael Patrick MacDonald
